Time slips through your fingers at Goukamma Nature Reserve – the passage of the day is marked by the tides, the crashing of the waves, and the lapping of water at the edge of the lake. From the tea-coloured water of the Goukamma estuary, to the limpid green of the Groenvlei lake, the reserve is a hymn to the power and beauty of water. It is one of the Western Cape's most significant Marine Conservation Areas, providing a safe haven for a variety of indigenous and endemic species. The ancient milkwood and coastal vegetation exert a different but equally compelling pull: after a day on the water, visitors can retreat to the soothing dark of the forest. Living in the forest means sharing it with the creatures who got there first, and guests will quickly get used to the sight of a vervet monkey peering through the window. CapeNature offers a range of accommodation and activities, giving visitors the opportunity to learn the rhythms of this beloved stretch of coastline.

To Goukamma and Buffalo Valley:

From Cape Town, take the N2 highway and travel for about 500km south towards George. Roughly 40km past George and between the towns of Sedgfield and Knysna, take the turn-off to Buffalo Bay. Follow this road for 8km and then turn right (towards the river) and into the reserve.

To Mvubu Bush Camp:

Approximately 2km east of Sedgfield (between Sedgfield and Knysna) on the N2, turn right at the signboard "Lake Pleasant" and continue past the caravan park. The road swerves to the right and becomes a gravel road. Continue with that road ± 1.7km until the first turn-off to the left with the signboard that says "Groenvlei/Mvubu Bushcamp". Follow the jeeptrack until you get to the gate of Groenvlei. The gate key is on your disk.
